One traffic police officer drowned and another was missing after trying to detain a drunk driver in the Irkutsk region. Got on repeat drunk driving motorist jumped into a mountain river to hide from law enforcement. Law enforcement officers followed him to get out of the water, but could not swim back. The intruder escaped, and he was arrested, and police search for the missing continues.

An unusual chase ended with a sad ending ordinary verification of the documents from the driver of VAZ-21140 with three traffic police officers in Angarsk, Irkutsk region. Late in the evening on June 28 traffic police crew stopped the driver of domestic passenger cars as it turned out, 26-year-old young man had signs of intoxication.

He behaved as the police claim is inadequate and tried to hide from the inspectors, jumping into a mountain river Kita - it is about her and inspectors on duty.

"Given the fact that the citizen was in danger, police Lt. Eugene wallet and Senior Police Lieutenant Alex Matonin taken steps to his rescue by throwing him into the water, - have told in the regional head office of MIA. - Another colleague traffic police inspectors followed the coastline and coordinate their actions, until he lost sight of.

For the offender and police investigation search operation was organized, which was attended by 170 Police Officers and Emergency Situations Ministry. Together, they combed the coastline and explored the nearby gardening. Divers checked the bottom of the river.

As a result, about an hour the night downstream body was found 31-year-old Lieutenant Eugene Bumazhnikova with signs of drowning.

He worked in the police for about eight years, the deceased inspector survived by his wife and 6-year-old daughter. The search for Alexis Matonina continues - the police, he is 11 years old, has two children of 12 and four years.

As for the drunk driver, the alcohol does not prevent him to swim and reach the village - Man found in a rented apartment in the town of Kita is located five kilometers away from the scene. It turned out that the detainee Nikolai Rukosuev has a criminal record for theft, and in 2014 had already been brought to administrative responsibility for driving while intoxicated. Now for repeated such violation could face criminal penalties and up to two years in prison.

"This is a mountain river, a large, wide, and very deep, for a very fast, - told" Gazeta.ru "a local administration MIA.- Previously, it was floated on the forest. As a result, the driver was lucky and the guys - no. "

On the video channel of the "Angarsk Alive" on YouTube users posted operative video, which detained the driver was taken to the scene for evidence. The man admitted that he did the day before sat behind the wheel drunk, and very sorry for his actions.

However, he said that only feels guilty for his drunk driving, but not for the death of a police officer.

"He drank two glasses, sat down, I thought that I shall reach up to the house - told the man standing on the shore in the background working divers.- The wife's brother's birthday. "

As explained in the press service of the State Ministry of Interior in the Irkutsk region, is currently searching for a missing police officer continues. On-site specialists are working on boats and equipment for diving.

Members of the Public Council under the management of Ministry of Internal Affairs of Russia in Angarsk expressed condolences over the death of the traffic police inspector Eugene Bumazhnikova and do not lose hope of finding his partner alive.

"In carrying out their duty, Eugene gave the most precious - their lives, - said chairman of the board of Olga Zheltonogova. - We do not lose hope that his partner, a senior police lieutenant Alexei Matonin will be found alive, and the originator of the incident will incur the deserved punishment. 26-year-old driver on the road represented a mortal danger, while his actions were not stopped by police crew. The act of a citizen, which became the cause of much human misery, it is impossible to measure the administrative or criminal law. "

Now the police will find out why a drunken driver in the pitch dark night managed to get out of the river, and two inspectors were in mortal danger.

Investigation verification is conducted on this fact the investigating authorities SU IC Russia in the Irkutsk region.

"Currently, the complex of measures aimed at establishing all the circumstances of the tragedy.

Insurance investigators are working at the scene. The audit will be made a legal decision ", - reported in the department.

It is noteworthy that shortly before the incident, the local law enforcers have already showed similar courage. A member of the Irkutsk police June 26 jumped into the Angara River to save a drowning dog.
